NEXT ISSUE

Our July/August 2017 issue will highlight the "Service Economy in Asia". The service sector could create jobs and increase personal consumption, but will this help overcome the so-called middle income trap as an impediment to economic growth in Asia? How will new services using ICT software or Fintech work in achieving structural reform of the Asian economy? We will offer readers some ideas of the possible roles and contributions of the service sector to the development and structural reform of Asian economies, which have the highest growth potential in the world.
